Martin House uses a clinical computer system, SystemOne, which lets health staff record patient information securely, onto a computer. This information can be shared with other clinicians so that everyone caring for a patient is fully informed about things like their medical history, allergies and medications.

- Sharing out: This controls whether information we enter can be seen by the rest of you/your health team. An example of this is that your GP will be able to see straight away if we make any medication changes.
- Sharing in: This controls whether we are able to access information which is sharable at other healthcare services. As an example, we may be able to see your last clinic letter or details of any medication changes made elsewhere. We may also be able to see when you are in hospital which is helpful and may enable us to offer support.

By ticking this box you are giving consent for us to share information with and from your other clinicians on SystemOne
